

Edison Innovative Power Invited to Participate in NYSERDA's Exclusive Founders & Funders Conference

Joins other New York State company leaders to review best practices in cleantech and clean energy companies

SYRACUSE, NY, Oct. 8, 2019 — Edison Innovative Power LLC (EIP) today announced its participation in the New York State Energy Research & Development Authority (NYSERDA) Founders & Funders Conference.

The event provides an opportunity for NYSERDA portfolio companies to connect with each other and with top cleantech investors. Key themes included funding and scaling clean energy companies across New York State.

James Morrison, CEO & Founder of Edison Innovative Power, participated in the invitation-only event which was held at Mohonk Mountain House in New Paltz, New York from October 2-4, 2019.

"This event brings business leaders and investors together to discuss best practices and to focus on the needs of clean tech companies as they develop, commercialize, and market new products and technologies," said Mr. Morrison. "The support NYSERDA offers with networking, grants, business execution support, and staff member training along with internship programs for local students and graduates entering the industry is exceptional. We were humbled by the invitation to participate and opportunity to explore the needs for future technology startups."
