SYRACUSE, NY, July 14, 2020 — Edison Innovative Power LLC (EIP) today announced the continuation of its highly successful paid internship program for summer 2020 with a grant from CenterState CEO.

The EIP Internship Program began in 2018 and expanded in 2019. Now with additional support from CenterState CEO, the program will continue to provide real-world employment opportunities to students from CNY universities specializing in computer science and electrical engineering.

EIP has invited an additional seven college students from Cornell University, Rochester Institute of Technology (RIT), SUNY Polytechnic Institute, Syracuse University, and Union College to participate in the program for summer 2020.

Based in Syracuse, NY, the CenterState Corporation for Economic Opportunity (CenterState CEO) is a twelve-county business leadership and economic development organization. A private, not-for-profit organization, CenterState CEO is dedicated to the success of its 2,000 members and the prosperity of the region.

“We’re excited to partner with CenterState CEO to offer these students real-world experience designing, manufacturing, and testing high voltage products,” said James Morrison, CEO & Founder of Edison

Innovative Power. “The students from these Central New York colleges and universities have demonstrated excellent skills, dedication, and character, and we’re thrilled to have the opportunity to extend this program through summer 2020.”

The company plans to continue the EIP Internship Program in 2021 and expand it with more Central New York partners in the future.
